CHEERING PLAINSMEN salute Coach Harvey Griffin and the football team which captures the coveted Mid-State Championship with a rousing assembly and the traditional "Charge!"

Here's to Enid High School,

Arms raised in salute, as spirits raised in victory—the Enid High School pride is a legendary thing. The motivating source is a burning drive for self-improvement and improvement of the school. Whether on the football field, the speakers' podium, or the bandstand, Plainsmen make evident their pride by upholding the standards put forth by their school. Everyone is a vital part in the works of our fine establishment; and their pleasure at this knowledge is apparent in every way. Whether cheering an athletic squad on to victory or wearing the satisfied look on their faces as a school day draws to an end, Enid Plainsmen are traditionally always proud.

A TRADITIONAL STRUCTURE is Enid High School, but it is the life and warmth within that so many students hold dear to their hearts years after they've left its halls.

Great is her fame.

The fame of Enid High as a school is matched only by the recognition her students gain on their own. Every day another student of E.H.S. is honored for his achievements in scholastic efforts, scientific progress, citizenship and community service, musical ability, or artistic achievement. It is the Enid students who are elected to state offices of various organizations.

Inside the great red walls life is merely a reflection of outside existence, but here is molded a way of life that has influence over what it reflects. It is for this reason that Plainsmen are constantly sharing the limelight. But students of Enid High do not bask in the glory bestowed on them, for "modesty in victory" is a clause of the Plainsman Creed taken to heart.

CITIZENSHIP AND CHARACTER result in awards of Outstanding Boy and Girl for Carol Masemore and Errol Kesner, presented by the Masons on Thanksgiving assembly program.

MR. AUTRY proudly receives for Enid High School the Outstanding School Award presented by the Masons.

SPECIAL ISSUE of THE QUILL offers a variety of EHS activities from the debaters on the front page to the athletes on the back.

Her team is fighting

SCREAMING CHEERLEADERS lead the football squad, ready for battle, through the column of ever-present Bravettes to an area in front of Enid fans where all join in singing Oklahoma.

THE TITLE of champion is earned only by those who fight like champions, and the Plainsmen drive carries them through.

To uphold her name

The name of Enid High School is recognized the state over as the name of a champion. As is always the case, every champion must be on constant guard, for all contenders are out to dethrone whoever holds such a title. The fighting teams of Enid High must often go to battle in her own defense, and the spirit of the fans rolls in waves across the field. Plainsmen want to win, and it is this prideful desire, hard work and skill, which makes E.H.S. a champion. Big Blue is a name to be proud of, a name well earned through the years.

ROCKETING SKYWARD, Plainsmen grasp at consecutive victories, putting forth that extra effort that is the difference.

(We'll all be true and loyal.)

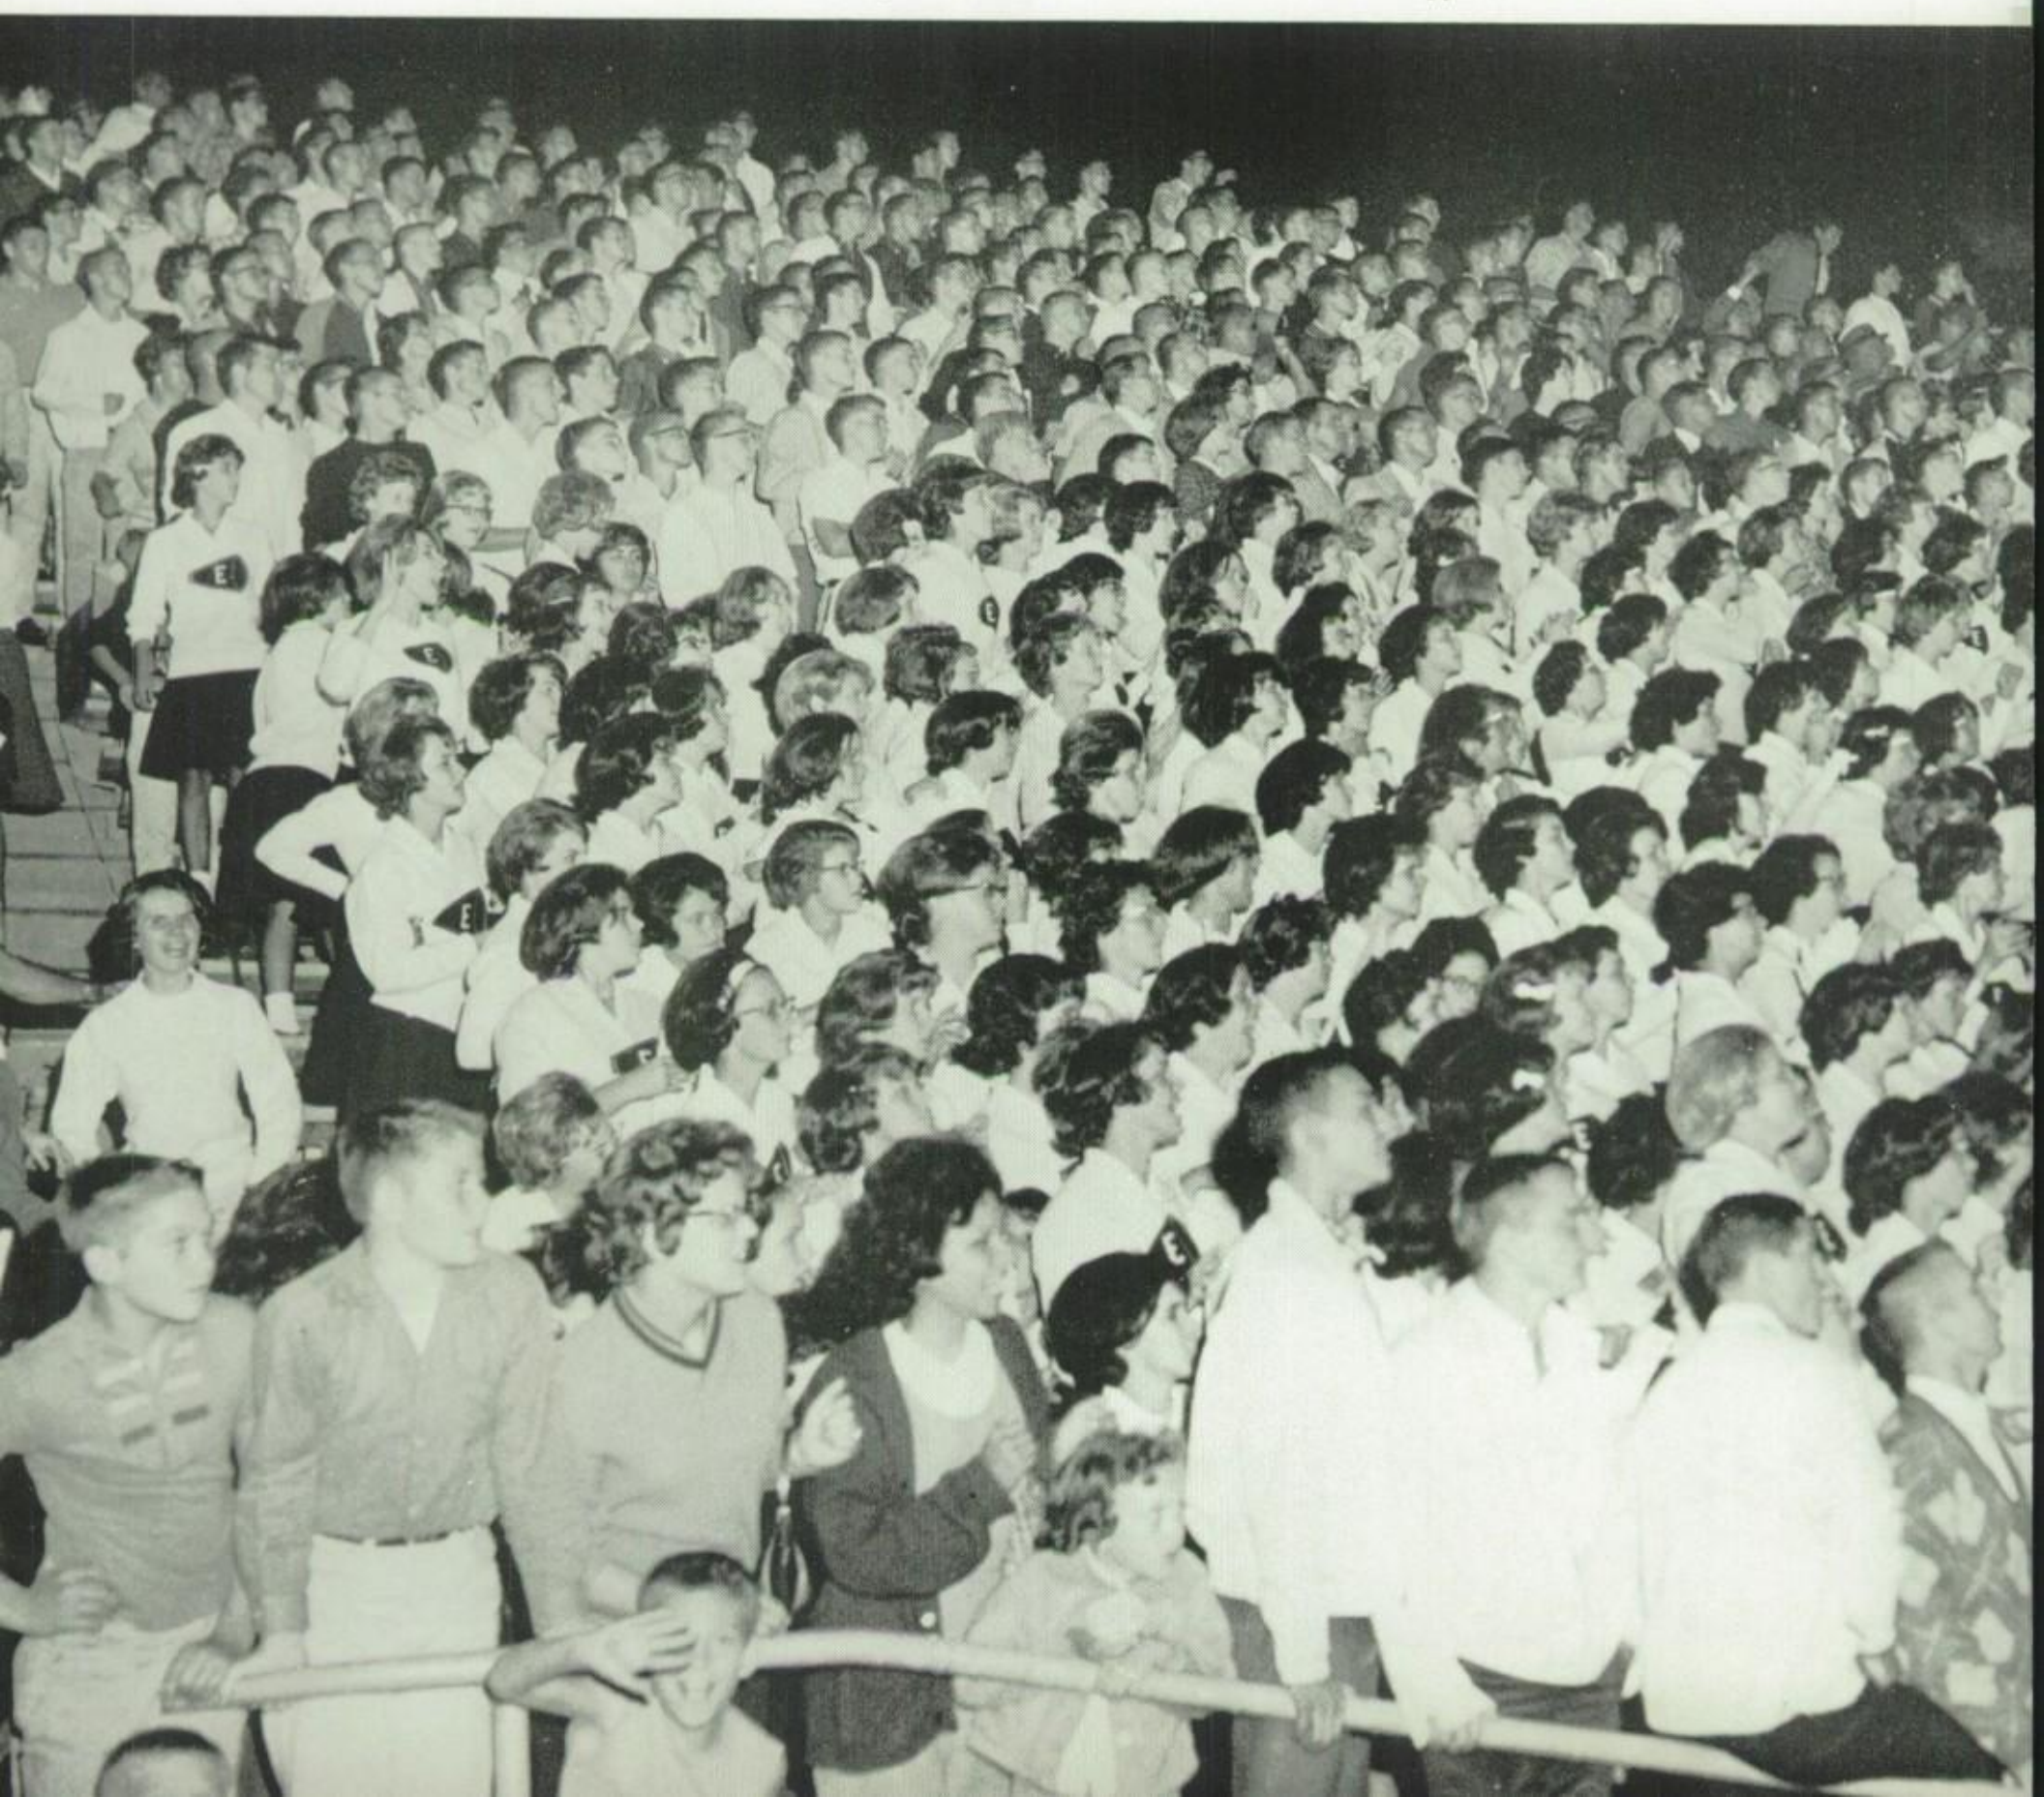
BAND QUEEN Ferral Lockner and attendants Carol Williams and Sherry Phillips enhance halftime of Friday-night games with their winsome friendliness.

Loyalty is the foundation upon which Enid High School is so sturdily constructed. It gleams through every phase of student life. Academically, Plainsmen strive for scholarship and honor. Yet they devote great portions of their spare time to school-sponsored extra-curricular activities. Every organization has more than a sufficient number of members to function well, and new clubs are springing up regularly. At sports functions loyalty is obvious in the pride felt by all students, but loyalty is not a temporary thing. It has permanence.

PLAINSMEN PRIDE is evident everywhere, as exemplified by the EHS Band, shown in the midst of impressive precision marching routine.

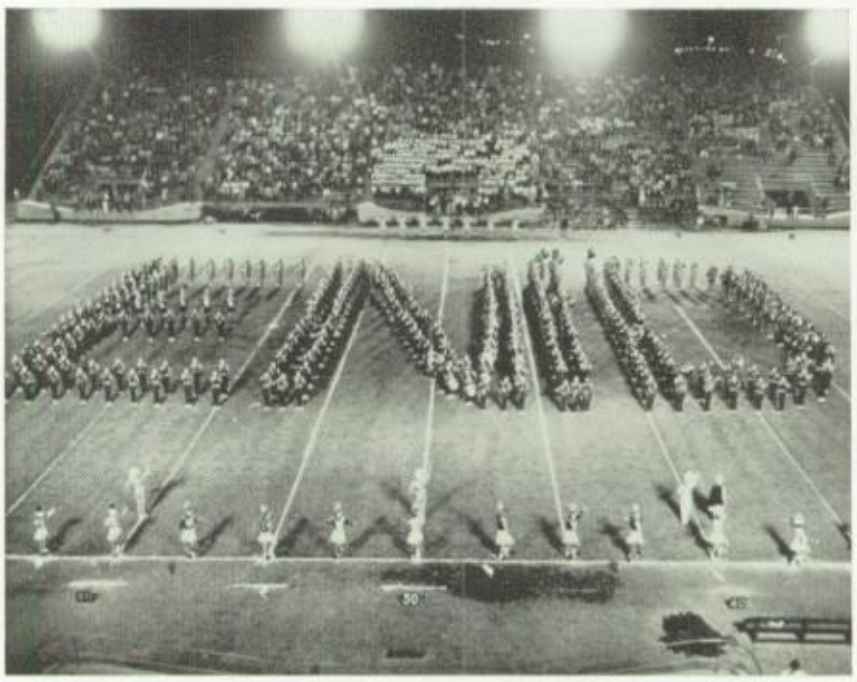
See her colors flying

ROUSED TO THEIR feet, a roaring crowd stands to see the excitement at the opposite end of the field.



The banner of E.H.S. flies proudly in the breezes of life, and students turn to honor it. These colors of Enid High lead the band wherever it goes this year, and proudly stand at attention with the flags of Oklahoma and the United States of America at each football and basketball game.

The colors of Enid High School, however, can fly only as nigh as the ambitions of her students, for they truly make the school.



UNIFORMS OF FOUR colors make an impressive display of loyalty as EHS band joins DeWitt Waller, Emerson, and Longfellow Junior Highs in an inspiring precision drill.

PROUD BOOSTERS Dianne Moore, Kay Hoisington, and Carolyn Woods, admire our Plainsman head with his colorful expanding victory bonnet.

MEMBERS OF ENID HIGH relax during a slow number in the midst of the festive after-game celebration to relive some of its thrilling moments.

High above the rest.

High is the spirit, high are the goals. High is ambition, high is the pride. The scores are high, as are the accomplishments of our scholars.

"High" is the word for E.H.S. and her students, be it a swimmer flying off the diving board or a physics student peering at Saturn from the cbservatory. Memories of these years will always rate a "high" position in the hearts of students.

ROCKIN' IT UP AT Homecoming, students are jubilant over their victory against Shawnee and express it in vehement, novelty dancing routines.

A QUIET PLACE to relax or study, the library with its friendly assistants and pleasant atmosphere provides a popular cultural center in which to browse among the literary minds of the past or read the current scientific experiments that bring tomorrow.

Blue and white will prove

Plainsmen have no trouble proving themselves capable young adults, be it to other students, teachers, or the outside world. Also they are proving to themselves the facts and figures of life about them, be it looking up research in the library or conducting an experiment in the science lab. But the record of the students and their work speaks for itself and that's all the proof needed. Results speak for themselves.

RAY STOWERS, Curtis Toews, Richard Bracher, and interested visitors observe dynamic atom model of oxygen atom, one of the many modern teaching aids bringing progress to E.H.S. in its ever-expanding scientific research program of activities.

ALTHOUGH SENIORS go on to greater things, their shadow is cast forever upon the portals of E.H.S.

"Ole E.H.S. is best" says the song, but all good things must come to an end. Seniors in their gowns step from the portals of Enid High to face the world on their own. The years of fond memories mingle with nervous anxieties about the future. Sophomore, Junior, Senior, and on; any who ever attended proclaim that these are the best three years of their life. With a toast to Enid High School and a fond farewell, seniors drift from one way of life to another.

In spite of publicity given to sports and extracurricular activities, the bread of life at Enid High School is still the routine classwork and progressive learning. It is through this medium that teachers and students must generally communicate, for that is still the purpose of it all. Student-faculty relations at E.H.S. have always been cordial and informal, but not without respect and meaning.

Emphasis On Excellence

Achievement in widely different areas was the reward of indefatigable 1963-1964 effort as Dr. Wagner congratulated the administrative staff and teachers of the Enid schools on the George Washington Medal of the Freedom Foundation Award of Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, when Enid was one of nine school systems to receive this national honor. Exhibits included work from the first grade Patriotic Primer through the Junior High School and High School. Forming a composite exhibit for the Enid school system, every level of education combined to present a single unified presentation.

Also this year brought completion of Enid's first air-conditioned school, Hayes Elementary, additions to three Junior High Schools, and completion of the new Science Dome at Enid High School, with its daily challenge to High School scientists.

For the first time in Enid's history, three tuition summer schools, Enid High School, Elementary Summer School, and Kindergarten school, expanded learning facilities for students of Enid.

Everyone Deserves An Opportunity

. . . He Sees That They Have It

Understanding, firmness tinged with common sense, and unerring sincerity lightened by a dash of humor made O. T. Autry highly respected.

Most admired was the self discipline with which he handled multitudinous problems, aware of the seriousness of each. His honest appraisal of a situation and the frankness with which he solved it won student as well as faculty appreciation.

Whether it was a change of schedule to permit part-time work, upgrading of science, or adding a new course in Great Books to further enrich the English program, Mr. Autry gave each new problem, trivial or serious, his undivided attention.

Seeking to strengthen the academic program, Mr. Autry introduced Economics as a Senior Elective, made studies of vocational education trying to improve opportunities for students to reach their potential interest that all might find their particular aptitude for learning with ease.

At Thanksgiving Mr. Autry accepted for Enid High School a Merit of Achievement presented by the Masonic Lodge of Enid. In February he accepted the George Washington Honor Award presented to Enid High School by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge for national recognition in Americanism presented through various departments.

Honors, individual and group, were recognized through the year with Mr. Autry being a vital factor in their attainment. Always he sought perfection in all areas, academic and extracurricular.

Keenly interested in sports, he spent many hours with his son, Steve, fishing, boating, and skiing. The Autry family enjoyed many week ends at the lake. Mr. Autry exemplified, in his own son, the comradely interest he showed to the students.

Mr. O. T. Autry, Principal

Jack D. Webb, Assistant Principal

One Must Live and Let Live

Irrepressible humor and good will, with an ability to be human, characterized Mr. Jack Webb, whose duties as assistant principal involved student-faculty relationships in all their complexities.

Always cognizant of the weaknesses of human nature, Mr. Webb tried to appeal to students' sense of fair play, responsibility to themselves, their parents, loyalty to their school, and their future ambition, in accepting responsibility for their actions. That he accomplished his goal with a minimum of emotional disturbance is testimony to his ability to arrive at solutions for everyone's welfare.

Outdoor Appeal

Though Enid High be famed for her teams in basketball and debate, her most loyal and dedicated team was the faculty. These hard-working men and women were the real heroes of E.H.S., arriving early every morning and staying late after team practice, or a meeting. In spite of the fact that the high school houses nearly 2,000 students, each teacher was ready to relinquish his spare moments to give personal attention to every student.

As many types of teachers as kinds of subjects, the faculty presented a galaxy of interests not only in their chosen fields but in their home lives. Mr. Collier would relate his coon-hunting experiences to history students, while librarian Dorice Allen and chemist Scott Ging are noted for their excellent singing voices. Mary Adams, head of the math department, bowled away her leisure hours, while Katherine Bales, art instructor, painted and sketched the world around her. Other interests fell in line with their chosen occupations.

It took all kinds to make a well-rounded faculty, but each had these ingredients in common: loyalty, self sacrifice, student interest, and enjoyment of the fullfillment in their life's work.

"I LOVE THIS new Evinrude, Steve!" exclaims Mr. Autry, beaming with pride on Father's Day at Sophomore son Steve's surprise gift for him.

Time For Fun

Every weekday from September to May seventy-five faculty members met in classes with over 1,800. In addition extracurricular hours were devoted to organization meetings, field trips, contests and individual counselling. There were papers to grade and report cards to prepare, essays to read and tests to write. A teacher's job lasted around the clock, with only self gratitude as a reward.

One would think that this would not leave a teacher time to express himself as an individual, but this was not the case. Charles Lynch and Gene Mauk were both active golfers. Rex Martin hunted and fished for enjoyment. Ronnie Moss, young mathematician, played clarinet and basketball, while Myrl Kirk delved into photography. Naomi Kindle's flowers kept her busy. She loved nothing better than sharing them with others in the library.

These were the men and women who made Enid High what it was. They were excellent, not for their vast learning and experience, but rather for their deep interest in each student; not for the cold facts of science, history, and the arts, but for the warm desire to help their fellow man create a better world in which to live and learn.

Prepare For Tomorrow

This was the Enid High School faculty. Their duties called upon them to serve in capacities from maternal to intellectual, and daily they were required to exhibit an extensive range of talent.

Teachers' pay, not famously extravagant, was augmented by a wealth of gratitude over the year. Their daily contributions were beyond repayment.

Thus, hand in hand with the student body, they utilized knowledge of the past and present to meet the needs of the student world of tomorrow.

Every day at noon a steady stream of hungry Plainsmen would flow into the cafeteria. It was the job of our cafeteria cooks and assistants to keep these students fat and happy. Each week a menu would be drawn up for the coming lunches with emphasis on a well-balanced variety of foods.

Through these masters of the culinary crafts we could boast that the Enid Plainsmen were a well-fed lot since breakfast and snacks were provided.

The ever-present maintenance crew kept the halls of E.H.S. spic and span and in good running condition. At night these people swept and scrubbed and in the daytime attended countless repair jobs constantly requiring their attention. These were the unheralded heroes rarely seen, but always there in time for the numerous extra jobs needed.

A cozy fire in fall

No two days are ever alike at E.H.S.

Each period brings something new or different to add that tasteful spice of variety to Plainsmen life. These frequent occurrences rarely disturbed the regular schedule of education, rather did they enliven them to a delightful degree.

YOUR SPIRITED CHEERLEADERS go through their paces in front of the traditional Plainsmen Indian with his colorful victory bonnet of six important Mid-State gridiron wins.

OUR FIRST OUTDOOR pep assembly was a rousing show of Plainsmen's inherent desire to continue winning.

Spirit Adds Extra Something

No game was complete without a pep assembly, and "pep" is hardly sufficient to describe the spirited gatherings, whether outside on the steps or in the auditorium, not forgetting the pep band.

Each assembly was centered around the big Plainsmen Indian, and every victory meant another feather in his bright war bonnet. These girls never missed an assembly, or a game of any sort, where they could once more lead the student body through the exciting yells which let our boys know we were backing them all the way win or lose.

When the weather was appropriate, these rallies were held outside, encircling the front steps. Here generous enthusiasm and a gentle breeze made the setting perfect to encourage our boys on to another Plainsmen victory.

Clean sportsmanship, strong school loyalty, and an honest desire to win made the E.H.S. pep assemblies an inspiring sight. The best team in the world would be useless without a student body to back them, and the Plainsmen did just that.

CHEERLEADERS Betsy Peterson, Cara Sue Morton, Anne Field, Barbara Cummins, Jan Mendenhall, Suzanne Powell, and Nancy Vollmer, displayed rousing pep.

THE OVERFLOWING SPIRIT and voluminous din of an E.H.S. pep assembly astounded Paraguayan teacher visitor Julian Armarillo Rojas, front row center.

OUR OKLAHOMA HERITAGE is the theme of this Homecoming assembly. Bill Gau sings an Indian ballad before tribe members.

EDDIE AND DENNIS Pendleton strum through a historical country tune in appropriate country setting.

TWO ENID HIGH feminine vocalists, Marlene Reid and Virginia Harris, harmonize in duet at Homecoming.

NO HOMECOMING ASSEMBLY is complete without a word of inspiration from D. Bruce Selby, former E.H.S. principal.

Homecoming Glorifies Yesterday

Former Enid High School graduates returned to their Alma Mater on October 4 for the annual Homecoming Assembly, always a highlight occasion.

The show was packed with student talent in all forms and based upon the rich Oklahoma heritage with which we are blessed. An added bit of spice was in order when Kay Creed, a former graduate and Miss Oklahoma, joined with the entire student body in a musical rendition of our past.

The unannounced choice of Homecoming Queen lent a bit of suspense to the day's activities, and a talk by Bruce Selby provided challenging inspiration. Mr. Selby was principal of E.H..S. for twenty-five years, and he is still a prominent figure on the Enid educational scene, today.

These were the components of Homecoming: talent, suspense, memories and inspiration—a truly warm welcome for returning reminiscent students.

WHICH ONE WILL be Homecoming Queen? Anxious contestants await the decision with fluttery nerves.

KAY CREED, chorus and dancers in early Oklahoma costumes, combine talents to top off a morning of entertainment.

Dance Concludes '63 Homecoming

There was never a dull moment around Enid High School. It seemed that every student was always buried knee deep in activities, be it entertaining an educator visitor from another land, working on the latest class project, representing the school in a statewide publication, or helping to spread seasonal cheer among the students.

In a school of this size, there were always things to be done, and never was there a lack of volunteers. Most students felt that to perform these little extras was indeed an honor rather than a duty, and a definite help in growing up.

Everyday there was something new—something to be done, or something to just sit back and enjoy. The opportunities and experiences provided in normal everyday activities made E.H.S. students' lives fuller and more enjoyable.

It was these pleasant changes of pace that kept our school jumping and full of life for the never-to-be-relived year of years, 1963-64.

COMPLIMENTED in Spotlight Waltz at beginning of evening's festivities, Football Queen, Attendants, and Escorts enjoy the dance that signals the beginning of fun for all their subjects.

Projects Develop Creativity

E.H.S. is a school of projects. Practically every specific organization had some type of projects going, either as individuals or as a group.

The Future Teachers kept up a relationship with former teachers through cards and gifts; each member of the physics class had to build a sun dial, as well as take part in the many experiments using the dome; science classes took seven out of ten of the top prizes at Alva Science Fair. The band and chorus each entered out-of-town contests and Enid's Tri-State as well as their own concerts.

Plainsmen were a traveling people. The Journalism Club attended frequent meetings in Norman and Stillwater and the National Inter-Scholastic Press Association Convention in Chicago. Hi-Y was represented at the District Pre-Legislative meeting at Stillwater and the Legislative Conference at the state capital. Speech students entered contests at Norman, Alva, Edmond and Oklahoma City.

Spirit of Christmas Prevails

Perhaps the most outstanding of all seasonal gatherings at Enid High was the annual Christmas Assembly. A multitude of students combined their skills to plan and create this really terrific showing of talent from effective dancing to holiness.

The lighthearted cheer of the season was personified by dancing Christmas trees, complete with blinking lights, and an astoundingly realistic stage setting of a "Winter Wonderland." Music was the thing, with vocalists and instrumentalists all rendering their tribute to this part of the year.

On a somber note, the true meaning of Christmas was beautifully brought to mind with a hushed enactment of the manger scene. The entire student body paid thankful homage to the Son and Father in a deeply moving moment of worshipful reverence.

Girls Make Great Contribution

BASKETBALL QUEEN Suzanne Powell takes the spotlight with Escort Don Newman at the Basketball Dance in her honor after the U.S. Grant game.

As important as our athletic teams were in the past year, the girls proved themselves to be no minor figures on the E.H.S. sports scene.

Take, for example, Suzanne Powell, Basketball Queen, and her attendants, Anne Field and Cara Sue Morton. During the usual pep assembly on the day of the game, the girls were introduced to the few that didn't already know them. The highlight of the game was the crowning ceremonies at the half, and afterwards the student body turned out en-masse for the Basketball Dance where they were honored.

The Bravettes, our enthusiastic pep club, lent enthusiasm and spirit to every football and basketball game, as did the bouncing cheerleaders.

As players, the girls were no less capable. The Girls' Recreational Association sponsored games of basketball, volleyball, and badminton, both intramural, and against other schools.

ALTHOUGH THE BASKETBALL Queen and her attendants were cheerleaders, the remaining four prove to be quite effective as they lead the pep squad in a yell to cheer the team to victory.

BIG HEARTED Aquaettes symbolize Valentine's Day in a snappy dance on their own annual assembly.

Aquaettes Ham It Up in Assembly

Practically every organization in Enid High School had an opportunity to show off their skills in assembly sometime during the year. For the EHS Aquaettes, our own talented mermaids, a show of this kind was right up their alley.

Once on stage, they gave choreographic and humorous demonstrations of the themes of past Aquaette programs. The show was climaxed with a mysterious dance composed of basic swimming strokes.

This assembly, as any other, would not have been possible, however, without the capable help of the stage hands. These skilled students started out long before any assembly, arranging props and preparing the scenery. During the actual program they busied themselves running the show, handling lighting, microphones, and pulling curtains. After the crowds and actors had gone, they were still about, sweeping and putting things up.

A STAGE HAND never rests. Busy preparing for our next assembly are Larry Jemison, Keith Burdett, Reed Hackworth, Milton Combs, Carl Brune, Randy Holcomb and Connie Oltmanns.

E.H.S.ers Live In Real World

The students of Enid High School take an unlimited interest in the world about them. Their minds extend far beyond the portals of Enid High, as demonstrated by their daily conversations.

They often show concern for others, be it a birthday card shower for the principal or a cordial welcome for a new student. Perhaps the magnitude of their concern was best demonstrated after the death of President Kennedy. Many paid homage to him, and all were saddened. An excellent example of the typical student reaction was Carolyn Woods. Carolyn wrote a memorial poem which was published first in the Quill Weekly and the Enid Daily Eagle, and later read by Congressman Page Belcher in Congress and entered in the Congressional Record, an honor to Carolyn and Enid High School.

With the end of the year came the ceremonious farewell to graduating seniors known as May Fete. Nearly all the sophomores and juniors contributed in some way to this lovely pageant tradition.

The chorus sang beautifully appropriate songs and young girls danced and wound the Maypoles. The band played numbers of gaiety and sentiment, and the seniors, led by the May Queen, her Herald, and attendants, marched past the mossy lakes, over the bridge, and into the future.

Music and Drama

Band Marches, Plays, Lives It Up

Perhaps of all E.H.S. organizations appearing regularly before the public, the band is the most often seen. The "Pride of E.H.S." knows no season. Each football game featured an intricate precision marching routine at the half; the steady rhythm of traditional marches was a familiar sound before basketball games and during halftime. No parade was complete without Enid High School's Precision Marching Band. Divisions of the band traveled about the state appearing in various concerts and contests. The young musicians were represented at local civic club meetings and all-state band in Norman. All-State is a large musical organization made up of the top musicians from all of Oklahoma.

April 30 and May 1, 2, the band played host to approximately 11,000 instrumentalists, percussionists, vocalists, and dancers from all over the nation at the annual Tri-State Music Festival. Here the bands took part in marching, concert, ensemble, solo, and parade contests with judges such as Benny Goodman and Joe Morello. The downtown square was magically turned to a huge carnival, and in between contests, concerts, and parades, all had a wonderful time just getting to know each other.

Although Enid was not eligible for the sweepstakes, they rated top honors in all fields as they have in the past.

During the football season, the musicmakers were a familiar sight out on the practice field at 7:30 in the morning. Frequently the group, under the experienced leadership of Eugene Griffin, would have to work up an entirely different complicated routine each week. One of their best-remembered performances was made with the three junior high school bands. On that night the field sparked with variety of color in uniforms, and the impression made on the onlookers was astounding and excellent.

During the colder months, they worked mainly on concert skills between their appearances at basketball games. On the evening of April 9 they presented "Symphony, Song, and Swing," annual Enid High School Band Concert. The band concert featured, fittingly, the concert band playing an enjoyable range of musical numbers from long hair to marches. In addition, a spot was given the percussion ensemble, a truly different type of musical combo. The symphonic band played delicate passages of classical music, and the stage band rocked on out with exciting jazz numbers.

Legionettes Take Top Honors

With a toot, bam, and a stomp the Legionettes, sponsored by American Legion Argonne No. 4, began a year of contest and fun. Some of their contests were: Texas Junior Division, in which they received State Champions, the National Contest in Dallas, two contests in Colorado and contests in Hutchinson and Great Bend, Kansas. The main contest was their annual program, "Music In Motion." There were five corps from Oklahoma, Kansas, and Colorado. Two kinds of trophies were given to the bands. They won first, second and third-place trophies for the corps and first, second, and third-place trophies for the Color Guard. Tri-State was another way in which they marched and played such songs as "Where or When," "Tonight," and "I Believe."

This twenty-six-year-old organization had new officers and instructors. The officers were Nancy Vollmer, president, Linda Graham, vice president, Pat Helburg, drum captain, Paula Benson, bugle captain, Karen Cuthbertson, secretary-treasurer, and Sherry Robertson, color guard. They also had three new instructors, Gary Hill, music instructor, Don Canfield, drum instructor, and Walt Barnes, corps manager. Sharon Oberlender, drum majorette, was the number-one girl leading the corps. They joined in their seventh-grade year and went through three years' training after which they were automatically admitted into the Senior Corps, where they enjoyed trips, contests, and practices for Legionettes.

ENID LEGIONETTES Drum and Bugle Corps were always effective appearing in one complicated maneuver after another, showing the discipline of constant practice. Always a must at patriotic observances in Enid, the Legionettes truly represented the American-way-of-life spirit of Argonne Post No. IV.

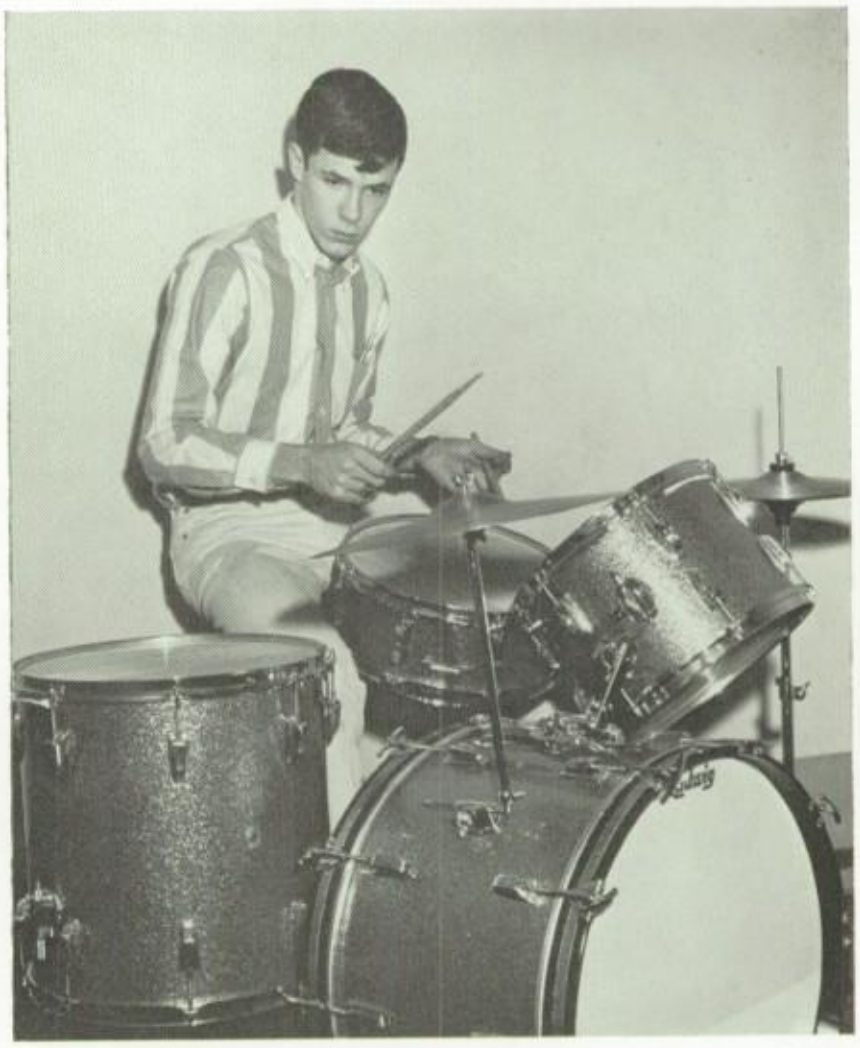
E.H.S. Stage Band Perfects Beat

In Enid High School one might expect to find the dance band listed among the extracurricular activities. With an organization playing marching music, another presenting concerts, and another, symphonies, it was only natural that the field of jazz be represented, and the director saw that it was.

This swinging group of about nineteen members was in demand for such activities as civic club banquets, school dances, and assemblies.

Under the direction of Mr. Eugene Griffin, select members from the Pride of EHS spent Tuesday nights mastering a new line of musical feeling. The jazz idiom was a strange world but quickly perfected, and the Enid High School Dance Band played its way into the hearts of big boppers everywhere.



MIKE DOUGAN, drummer, takes his music seriously, the beat being the thing he's most concerned about now.

Mixed Chorus Blends Voices

The Mixed Chorus, made up of the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, under the direction of Mrs. Maurine Morrow Priebe, had a year mingled with hard work.

The young vocalists, 106 voices strong, performed before varied audiences throughout the state this year. Besides performing in school assemblies, they sang for several local civic organizations.

On the Thanksgiving assembly, November 27, the Chorus sang "Exodus" and "Onward Christian Soldiers." Also the group joined all Enid schools in the ever-popular annual Christmas Vespers at Convention Hall, singing "The Hallelujah Chorus" and "Little Drummer Boy," along with the traditional Christmas carols.

This year the Mixed Chorus joined with the Girls' Chorus to make a record entitled "Sing, Plainsmen, Sing." 1,000 records were made, and put on sale at Christmas time for $3.50. On the record were the patriotic numbers sung by the Chorus at the Oklahoma Education Association in 1962 and other selections from the 1963 and 1964 years. Mrs. Priebe chose for the record's cover a blue background with the traditional Enid High Indian head. The chorus was equally proud when they paid their own expenses.

To advertise the Chorus's record, the Liberty Federal Savings and Loan Company featured the Mixed Chorus in the Christmas issue of their magazine with Mike Dougan writing the story.

Among the many engagements made by the Mixed Chorus was Stillwater at the State Teachers' Meeting. The Girls' Glee Club raised their voices to sing the "Nut Cracker Suite." The chorus also sang for the Rotary Club, assemblies, and the Tri State Music Festival held in Enid each year.

The mature, blooming voices of these young artists rang throughout the halls of E.H.S. this year as they sang the traditional Christmas carols for the student body. Their voices could be heard each day adding an extra touch to the first floor.

The spring highlight came for the Mixed Chorus when they joined the Girls' Chorus for their annual "Time to Sing" program. At the conclusion of the program, the Chorus King and Queen were crowned.

Last performance of the year came when the Mixed Chorus, minus Seniors, sang at the May Fete.

Work brought rewards with each performance, and members could cherish the memories of each concert for years to come.

Girls Harmonize With Quality

MRS. MAURINE PRIEBE, head of the Enid school system vocal department, and Enid High School Chorus director, has led the chorus to heights of achievement.

Girls' Glee Club had a busy year, appearing in assemblies, before civic clubs, and providing entertainment for numerous school events.

Each day the organization met in practice for one hour by themselves and one hour with the Boys' Glee Club to form the Mixed Chorus. This was accomplished under the direction of Mrs. Maurine Priebe.

Highlighted performances of the year were the Lions Club appearance, annual Thanksgiving assembly and Christmas Vespers. Talented young ladies also wrote script for their gala spring concert.

Bringing the year to a close, the Girls' Glee Club appeared royally bedecked in colorful formals for the May Fete festivities. Here they supplied music spiced with color and dances.

Along with the chorus, their melodic voices were heard on the record, "Sing, Plainsmen, Sing."

Boys' Glee Club Projects Sound

Those masculine voices with the wide ranges one heard as he passed the chorus room during second period were the melodious members of the Boy's Glee Club. A wide variety of songs from Classical Latin to popular show tunes provided a well-rounded musical background.

Appearing with the Girls' Glee Club on the Thanksgiving assembly brought the holiday spirit to E.H.S. At Christmas Vespers boys raised jubilant Christmas feeling in the audience.

In the spring the curtain opened for the annual spring choral program with the boys presenting several numbers. The boys along with the girls sang great old memorable tunes to the graduating seniors. Last tunes from the Boys' Glee Club were heard at Commencement. Many would continue in music majoring in fine arts in college, and using their musical know-how for greater enjoyment in their everyday lives.

Orchestra Strives for Variety

ORCHESTRA MEMBERS preparing for an Enid High production are Jan Burton, Connie Carstensen, Diana Dougherty, and Bill Cromwell.

Hard work plus long hours of practicing formed the impetus of Enid High School's Orchestra, and it proved worth the students' efforts as they gained honor for their diligent labor and enjoyment.

Under the direction of Mr. Eugene Griffin, the fifteen members proved that size wasn't the essential element but the quality of presentation was more inportant when they represented Enid High at the Music Festival held in Stillwater December 14. Bill Cromwell went to All-State last February in Norman. Again they were featured in solos and ensembles at Tri-State, not to forget the numerous individuals performing on various assemblies.

Experience gained at these contests inspired all to improve their talents. This was seen when they transferred their feelings to the audience with their "singing strings" during their annual concert in early spring, a lovely program for all.

Strong Numbers-Vibrant Sounds

Busy, busy, busy was the echo coming from the Girls' Chorus this year. The 150 chanters spent most of the year preparing for their annual programs along with extra activities. The Thanksgiving assembly provided the first appearance for the chorus. Among their selections sung were "Bless This Hour," "Ora Pro Nobis," and "What Tongue Can Tell." As Christmas came along, the inspiring Christmas Vespers were presented with the Girls' Chorus singing "Rejoice, Rejoice Ye Christians" and "Go Tell It On The Mountain." The hallowed halls were the perfect setting for Christmas caroling. Songs sung by the chorus from 1961-62 were recorded. The record was entitled "Sing, Plainsmen, Sing" and held memories for many.

The biggest feature was the annual "Time to Sing" concert. And for the year's finale they sang at the May Fete. With all these accomplishments they had a worthwhile and most enjoyable year.

EHS Classes Combine In Play

AGING RONNIE HIGGINS calls "Kitty, kitty" as angels look on.

A cast of angels brought hilarious laughter when the All-School Play, "Down to Earth" came to life on Nov. 7. Directed by Mrs. Delyte Poindexter, the comedy portrayed the lives of Augusta Applegate (Phillis Haltom) and Herman Howell (Ronnie Higgins), who were almost ready to ascend into heaven. According to angel Agnes's (Creeta Sims) cosmic counter, Augusta was not willing to go to heaven. But Herman, a retired sailor, had grown old through the years and was more than willing to go. This pleased Wilfred (Jim Buxton), another angel on his earthly mission.

Augusta, a wealthy old maid, had promised her money to none of her relatives. Orpha (Kathleen Maddox) and Millie (Kristin Roberts), her money-loving nieces, were trying desperately to get it. Then along came Pilone (Eddie Pendleton), not quite a fullfledged angel and with only one wing. Every time Pilone kissed someone, that person would fall in love with the on-looker.

The play ended when Pilone made Augusta and Herman fall in love and caused Augusta's jilted maid, Diana (Janet Netherton), to fall in love with him. Pilone received his other wing and, along with Diana, ascended into heaven.

Other characters were Diane DeFoe, Ruthie; Gail Cole, June; Brent Wolfe, Robert; John Hartman, Baxter; and Reed Hackworth, Richard.

Full House at "Down to Earth"

The acting urge is inherent in all of us. Who has not, at one time or another, hosted a desire to be another person, to step into an entirely different role for just an hour or so. What would it be like to go in front of hundreds of people, not as yourself, but as an entirely original character living a heretofore unknown life? Maybe it would be a tragic one, or perhaps light-hearted, or maybe supernatural—a being unknown. No matter what type of role you may be cast, wouldn't it be great to escape from our everyday routines and drudges and become that person.

Unfortunately, this opportunity does not often arise, and when it does it is generally restricted in some manner, such as to seniors or Thespians. Once a year, however, any student that has the urge can try his hand in the All-School Play. Of course, one must demonstrate a little natural talent, a strong desire to make good, the will to work, and a true love of acting—but these qualities are not as rare as one might think.

PHYLISS HALTOM and Ronnie Higgins, are love-struck by the kiss of an angel, and just won't accept the ways of fate as John Hartman looks on unbelieving.

LOVE IS IN the air, as Eddie Pendleton, the half-pledged angel, goes on the rampage with his magic kisses in search of another wing.

PLAYBOY JAY POLLEI can't seem to hold his temper after being dragged into court on outlandish, but almost true, charges.

Seniors Show Talented Skills

THE "BACHELOR and the Bobby Soxer" (Anne Field), find true love at last, much to the dismay of all concerned.

Enjoyment plus was the result of the senior play, "The Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer." Every senior had an important part to contribute to the perfection of the play.

Anne Field who played Susan Turner was the flamboyant sixteen-year-old girl who became deeply infatuated and in love with a bachelor painter, Richard Nugent, played by Jay Pollei. Linda Walker, Judge Margaret Turner, was Susan's big sister and was like a mother to her throughout the performance. Margaret never had time for men and courtship because of her busy and most prosperous career as a judge. Not only did Margaret have a tough time keeping Susan out of trouble, but it was a difficult task to explain that a 24-year-old man was just a bit too old for her. During all the true-to-life predicaments and outstanding senior acting, we come out with the result of a good comedy from the play.

Mrs. Delyte Poindexter, director, was again a victor on an outstanding and audience-pleasing play.

Thespians Present Biblical Play

The Thespians of Enid High School presented their annual play this year called "Dear and Glorious Physician." Being on the best-seller list for over a year this magnificent and much-loved story was told by Luke, the Physician, Healer, and Apostle. The play was alive with the bustle of ancient times and places and illuminated by flashes of genuine lyrical intensity. Movingly and with powerful grandeur it reconstructed St. Luke's search for God.

Each character played an important role to make the play outstanding, but the main character was Luke, portrayed by Errol Kesner. Errol conquered his part, beautifully playing the handsome youth, Luke. As the performance progressed, Luke grew older, and he became confident in himself and later became a physician. Luke's character was excellently shown as a stately man. He rarely smiled, but there was a warmth and dedication in his manner. He dressed like a humble freedman, and, although years passed, he stayed handsome and blond. A great tragedy in the play, the loss of his sweetheart, Rubria, made Luke bitter toward God, and his mannerisms changed greatly. His rebellion was kept more to himself, but Luke finally regained his faith.

Simplicity was the key to the most effective staging of this play. The various scenes were merely suggested by the substitution or rearrangement of simple props.

This dramatic and happy story was simply portrayed, but moved to a powerful and compelling climax.

LUKE SITS in plaza with family and his only earthly love whose death turns him against his God.

LUKE LOOKS on with despair as slave marketeer whips human merchandise. He later purchased the same slave and freed him.

"Lights out! Curtain up! Action! Camera!" These are familiar words to those in the Thespian Club. Thespians participated in some phase of every play given this year. The various phases, costumes, make-up, furnishings, offered experience in all divisions of dramatic work.

This spring a formal banquet was given in honor of graduating Thespians. The banquet tables were decorated to carry out the themes of each school play given this year. A get-acquainted party for prospective members was held in the fall.

An initiation was given each semester for those who had earned the ten required points. Points were earned by the members by selling play tickets, ushering, and helping on the various committees for the plays.

This year, as in years before, the Thespians attended the annual State Thespian Convention. Improving acting abilities, discussing ideas for Thespian activities, and making new friends were only a few rewards gained from this convention.

The main purpose of the Thespian Club is promoting dramatic art in the secondary school. The club worked hard this year to accomplish this theme, and they reached this goal.

The high point of the season was the Thespian Play, featuring a cast of members only. The Dear and Glorious Physician, presented April 3, was in keeping with the Easter season.

Decisions Make Deadlines

Headlines and deadlines played important roles for the QUILL annual, awaited-eagerly-all-year project of Enid High and perhaps the most popular.

Accuracy and confidence were important essentials. Every fact had to be checked, corrected, and then rechecked. Responsibilities lay heavy, but were well rewarded when the finished product reached the students, after a long nine months.

Work wasn't the only activity of the staff. Their business was supplemented with fun. A trip to Chicago and a picnic were two of the extra-curricular activities, the QUILL annual staff enjoyed.

All in all it was a worthwhile job, for each felt a sense of achievement in the final product.

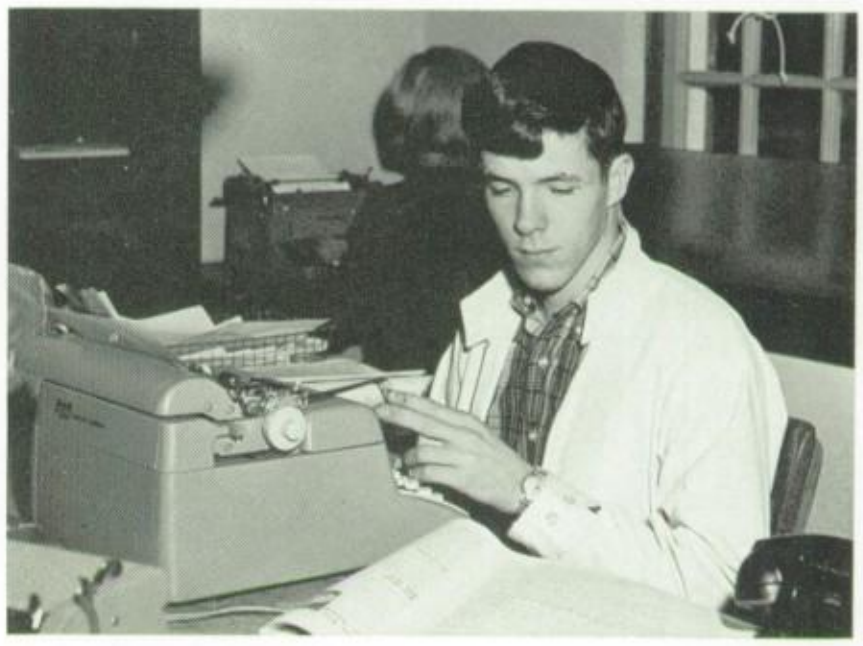
EXAMINING COPY, Glenna Britton, Myra Lewis, Mike Dougan, Nancy Horner, Sharon Long, prepare QUILL Annual.

Staff Burns Midnight Oil

A nose for news and a love of expression were but two of the requirements found in each member of the QUILL news staff. The QUILL was a mirror of student life and an interesting, as well as informative, periodical. Times in the QUILL Office were hurried, hectic, and occasionally hilarious, as the staff was striving to make a deadline.

Editors were usually found writing heads, reading proofs, or designing pages, while in the journalism room newswriters created features, editorials, and news.

All the reward these young journalists received was an occasional opportunity to see their work in print, the sight of 1800 students with a QUILL, and maybe their name on the masthead; but this was enough.



IMAGINATION, FACILITY, ideas, and depth crop up in the writings of Mike Dougan, promising young journalist.

Journalists Work, Have Fun, Grow

Hosting speakers at home and at district meetings, the Journalism Club learned good journalism.

Eighteen students and Miss Ruth Scott, sponsor, journeyed to Chicago, Illinois, for a National Scholastic Press Association meeting during Thanksgiving vacation. Approximately 1,750 journalism students from all over the United States attended. The club traveled this year to the University of Oklahoma at Norman, Oklahoma State University at Stillwater and to The Daily Oklahoman in Oklahoma City. When they toured the newspaper office, they interviewed the state editor, Mr. Ben Berger and other personnel.

Managing their affairs were the officers: Suzy Woodward, president; Rachel Mathews, 1st vice-president; Susan Underwood, 2nd vice-president; Diane DeFoe, secretary; Kay Hoisington, treasurer; Susanne Moore, refreshment chairman, and Patti Gearheard, program chairman.

Debate Challenges the Mind

STUDENT DEBATERS Robert Touchstone, Cherlyn Hannaford, Robert Hays and David Stoner enter another heated round of discussion.

THE PROS AND CONS of medi-care are weighed and argued by Connie Frantz, Mary Ross, John Hartman and David Hough in practice debate. The students are preparing to take top honors in coming debate tournament, where they must match wits with fast thinkers from all over the state.

Mrs. Una Voigt's debate classes were in full swing this year. Speech contests, debates, and class exercises kept them very busy. Mrs. Voigt began class by explaining why you should not argue facts and opinions. Debate broadens views of world problems and current events. By earning points in debate, students were eligible for NFL membership. The first contest was a legislature debate at Edmond; Robert Touchstone was elected debate captain. The first-year debate and advanced classes usually took a resolution once a year. The topic of this resolution was decided the year before. Mrs. Voigt selected the debate teams and decided on the subject to be debated. Mary Ross, president of NFL, along with the other NFL members and the debate classes, helped to make EHS an outstanding high school.

NFL Students Speak Again

Hours of hard work resulted in NFL membership for some EHS students this past year. The National Forensic League was a speech club designed to make better Americans and speakers of the students.

Numerous speeches were given in order to receive enough points for membership. A total of twenty-five points, ten of which were contest points, was required for membership in this club.

Service projects such as speaking on assembly, giving radio talks and speaking to various groups and organizations, gave experience plus points.

After membership was earned, students tried for degrees. The number of points made at contests went toward the next degree. Degree of Honor, Distinction and Merit are among the higher degrees.

The NFL insignia is the key with an eye engraved beside the letters NFL. For the various degrees earned stones were placed in the eye.

State and district contests allowed the students to work and become better acquainted with parliamentary procedure and the process used in actual legislative congresses of our government.

Learning about the problems of the world was emphasized by Mrs. Una Voigt, head of the speech classes, creating an experience to be remembered.

Radio-TV Has Meaningful Year

KENNY KLINGENBURG, Carolyn Woods, and Shirley Hyde conduct a man-on-the-street interview at Open House for a Radio project.

The Radio and T.V. Class blended excitement and fun with education this year. Extemporaneous and impromptu speaking prepared students for writing scripts which were used in contests. The art of writing radio commentaries and newscasts was important in contests. The class did cuttings from plays, duet acting, and radio plays. This year they had the privilege of going on K.C.R.C. Thursday evenings to give high school news, and Saturday morning they presented the "Top 25" program with Dave Jones. Individuals were asked to speak at civic organizations, church groups, and assemblies. One highlight of the year was in the spring when the radio class took over K.G.W.A. on Wednesday, March 11, and presented "Radio Day." The students were responsible for writing their own radio scripts.

Participants in this club along with their officers really enjoyed their exciting year, not only in their radio broadcasts, but in their annual assembly in the spring. With experience from Radio and T.V. class, students learned skills which enable some of them to go on in radio or television after high school. Hard work and persistence built a year of progress.

Plainsmen Thrill Capacity Crowds

Given no higher than fourth place by the coaches' poll, the '63 edition of the Enid Plainsmen became the dark horse of the Mid-State conference by taking the championship.

Enid first tasted victory against the Blackwell Maroons. Six boys, Herbert Bradden, Buddy Miller, Joe Poslick, Bruce Newton, Richard Escoe, and Richard Nelson, all scored for EHS to help sew up a 38-6 victory. All three touchdowns in the second half came on runs of 88 yards or more.

The Duncan Demons proved too much for the Plainsmen, although Enid pushed the ball inside the Demon ten-yard line several times during the night. Duncan scored the only touchdown of the game early in the first quarter and came out on top 7-0.

Next Enid took on the Putnam City Pirates. The Plainsmen led all the way until the Pirates scored on a long pass. Then with 28 seconds left, Enid carried the ball 91 yards in two plays, but time ran out. The game ended a 30-27 Mid-State conference victory for Putnam.

Enid started a long string of victories by beating the Shawnee Wolves with a stunning 76-8 massacre. The second string played most of the game after the starters had piled up an impressive lead. Two of the Plainsmen's touchdowns were scored off kickoff returns, and two more came from long runs. Enid's record for the season now stood at 2-2 over-all and one win and one loss in the Mid-State Conference standings.

Enid's next foe, Oklahoma City Douglass, saw the unveiling of a new weapon, the screen pass. Junior quarterback Mike Arnold faked a long pass but instead threw to senior halfback Buddy Miller who was waiting behind a blue-shirted wall of blockers. Miller sprinted 83 yards for the tally. Enid continued to unleash long scoring runs throughout the game, with Arnold throwing passes to senior Herbert Bradden and junior David Karns for gains totaling over 150 yards. Senior Joe Poslick scampered 73 yards for six more points, and Miller came back with 12 more on runs of 48 and 79 yards.

Have 'Dark Horse' Wins

Predicted to lose the next one 17-7 by the sportswriters, Enid upset the Midwest City Bombers in the Game of the Week. The Bombers, ranked second in the state behind Lawton, thought they had an easy victory, but the Plainsmen surprised everyone by pulling the game out of the bag 21-13. Except for the forty-yard punts of Danny Teeters, there were no exceptional players either offensively or defensively for the Plainsmen. This win put the Plainsmen's season record at 4 wins and 2 losses overall.

One week later the Plainsmen played host to Ponca City. Big Joe Poslick continued to add to his ground-gaining honors when he was called upon many times for short yardage. On one of these runs, Joe carried two Ponca defenders with him into the end zone. Tom Corr and David Davis also continued to prove their outstanding capabilities on the line. Enid's Herbert Bradden turned in the best offensive effort of the evening, helping the Plainsmen overcome the Ponca City Wildcats 21-12.

Dads Honored at Home Game

Northwest Classen's powerful passing defense again forced Enid to stick to a ground game next week. Joe Poslick had one of his best nights as he helped boost Enid to a 32-6 win. For Joe's first tally, he carried three defenders on his back into the end zone. Later, when Enid was in trouble deep in their own territory, the Plainsmen lined up in a deep punt formation. However, the ball was snapped to the short man, Poslick, who fell in behind several blockers and ran 76 yards for another Enid score. The reserves took over at this point and proceeded to finish the game as well as the first string had begun it.

Although a smaller school, Stillwater has always fielded an excellent team. This year was no exception. Owning a 7-1 record, Stillwater came here to make every effort to stop Enid's winning streak. Once more Enid had a wonderful evening, beating the Pioneers 27-13. Don Newman, Joe Poslick, and David Karns turned in fine performances. Enid now had a 7-2 record with only two games to go.

Enid Hosts Lawton in AA Playoff

Enid fans filled Plainsmen Field to see the do-or-die game for the EHS team. Capitol Hill, always a strong contender, seemed certain to win with a 14-13 edge with only six minutes to go. At this point, quarterback Mike Arnold threw a short screen pass to end Jim Mabry, who fell in behind several blockers and raced all the way for the touchdown. Arnold again called on Mabry for the extra point try. All alone in the end zone, Mabry caught an easy pass for two points. Capitol Hill could not overcome the lead, and Enid won a 21-14 game.

This was the game that counted. A loss by Enid would result in a three-way play-off for the championship. The boys in blue, along with several thousand screaming fans, journeyed to Oklahoma City to play U. S. Grant. The Generals, a new addition to the conference, were all keyed up to stop Enid. A muddy field and a wet ball ruined Enid's passing attack, but with the deft maneuvering of the Enid High Plainsmen, Enid won, again, hands down, 32-7.

Enid hosted the Lawton Wolverines in the last game of the season, November 29. This was not a regular-season game, but slated the always colorful State Class AA semi-finals. Ahead at the half 7-6, Enid fought a tough battle all the way, but Lawton came back in the final two periods to overpower the Big Blue by a score of 20-15.

In appreciation of our coaches' fine work this past season, a group of avid Plainsmen football fans presented 1964 Mercury and Chevrolet station wagons to Coaches Harvey Griffin and Rex Martin.

The fans, spearheaded by Dale Johnston and Ray Hayes, contributed one hundred dollars apiece to reward our fine coaching staff for their excellent work with the team this season and in the past.

The rest of our coaching staff, Frank Shive, Floyd Winfield and Tom Niles, each received a gift certificate for their outstanding leadership, too.

Although the students couldn't afford to give our dedicated coaches new cars or certificates, they were appreciative of the fine sports program and said so in the sportsmanship shown at games.

Individuals Stand Out

In individual as well as the team standings, the Plainsmen fared unusually well in 1963.

Those players making the All-State team were Joe Poslick and Tom Corr. The players who rated All-State honorable mention were Jim Mabry, end, and David Davis, tackle.

In the Mid-State Conference, the Enid players making the all-conference team were Tom Corr, David Davis, and Jim Mabry, linemen; and Buddy Miller, Don Newman, halfbacks; and Joe Poslick, fullback. The boys who made all-conference honorable mention were Herb Bradden, halfback; Clifford Omo and David Shuttee, centers; Danny Teeters, end; and Danny Winfield, quarterback.

These players consistently showed the qualities of good sportsmanship, academic ability, as well as athletic ability needed in top-notch players.

According to Harvey Griffin, head football coach, a player must be a good sport at all times, have an eligibility card signed by all his teachers before every game, and have that all-important athletic ability to consistently make the tackle, block, or run.

Plainsmen Have Worthwhile Season

Enid started the '64 basketball season with determined spirits which led to the fifteen out of twenty-five victories for the Plainsmen. The Highlanders brought in victories from Putnam City, U. S. Grant, Shawnee and Capitol Hill which made Enid just as proud of our Plainsmen "A" team for next year.

Plainsmen opened their season at the Tulsa tourney, in which Enid placed 45-39, and from there to El Reno to another roundball tourney which they won 59-44. Next game for the Plainsmen was with the number-one-rated Midwest City Bombers on the Bombers' home court. Applying the determination which has been predominant in Enid teams this year, the number-ten-rated Plainsmen knocked off the number-one-rated Bombers by a hard-fought score of 45-36, giving Enid the win.

The Midwest team put a man-to-man defense on junior guard Gene Hawk, and this enabled Bruce Kiefer and Buddy Plummer to score 17 points apiece. Next the Plainsmen met Ponca City on the Plainsmen's home court. Enid won this game by 58-47. The next game played was with Capitol Hill which we lost by the closest of the scores in the tournament, 51-50.

A determined, smooth-running Northwest Classen came to Enid January 28 to crush Enid's hope for victory with a lopsided 57-41 win. The Knights took an early lead which they held throughout the game. Both teams were about equal from the throw line with Enid making 17 points out of 31 attempts and Northwest receiving 21 out of 34 trips to the line. The rebounds didn't alter the score either, with both teams picking off 26. Both teams also received one hasty shot for the cap, technical foul calls.

The Plainsmen romped over the Generals at the January 31 game with U. S. Grant bringing a victory of 58-45 before a crowd of 2,000 anxious fans. Marty Sunderland topped the scoring parade by making 19 points. Gene Hawk was not far behind with 16 points, and Bruce Kiefer helped out the team with 12 points.

There were only two returning lettermen to the team this year, Juniors Marty Sunderland and Gene Hawk. The 6' 5" Plainsman, Marty Sunderland, pumped fifteen points of individual scoring in the Midwest City game, February 4. Adding up more points were Buddy Plummer scoring thirteen points and Gene Hawk making nine points. The game was as tense as it was action-filled as the Bombers picked up the lead in the third quarter and nabbed the victory of 49-42.

Sunderland Makes State

Enid lost their important game in state play to Lawton 51-56. This left Enid winning the Mid-State Championship with Plainsmen displaying the trophy with pride.

Junior Martin Sunderland was the only one from Enid in the rating and was one of only two juniors ranked. Sunderland plays center for the Plainsmen.

Coach Dusty Eby, EHS basketball and baseball coach, led Enid's team on to many victories as a result of hard work, practice and determination. This was Coach Eby's second year at EHS and each year he had produced a good substantial basketball team of which the Plainsmen were proud.

Donnie Newman had also knocked up many points for EHS. Height did not necessarily make a good basketball player, as proved by Donnie. He was short, but quick to get the ball and to dodge the other team and to strike up two points for EHS.

Girls Make Great Contribution

Although girls may be termed the weaker sex, they are by no means the less outstanding at Enid High School. Girls with common interest banded together in many an organization, some dedicated to careers, Future Teachers, Medical Arts, and others for plain old fashioned fun. In this class fell clubs such as G.R.A. and the best known of all E.H.S girls' organizations, the Bravettes.

Old yearbooks show that once Enid High had an all-boys' cheering squad, the Braves, and before that, a Booster club of boys. In recent years, however, girls have had all of the organized pep.

1963 Season All State Win

Relying much in its solid pitching staff and the batting ability of Joe Poslick, Enid had a very successful baseball season. Coach Dusty Eby started seasoned veteran Dan Teeters many times for the Plainsmen, and Teeters always came through in fine style for the team.

Joe Poslick, who last year hit the home run that won the State Championship for Enid, kept up his batting average by knocking across many Enid runs and proved invaluable in several victories.

Although many players on last year's team had moved on to college, Coach Eby was able to shape the boys into a smooth running squad. Returning from last year, Courtney Farrell, Dan Winfield, and Jim Hudson helped round out the organization. Don Newman, Marty Sunderland, Jerry Cornwell, John Moats, Buddy Plummer, and John Rinehart also had excellent records with the team.

JOE POSLICK comes flying in from the home run to take State AA Championship at Lawton.

Way to a Winning Season

Those cyclones of the cinder track, coached by Harvey Griffin, competed in such meets as the Lawton Invitational, the Norman Invitational, the Oklahoma City Invitational, the Central State Invitational, the Northwestern Invitational, the Midwest City Invitational, the Regional track meet, and the Mid-State track meet during the 1964 season.

Returning from last year's Mid-State championship and State Champion team, were Buddy Arnold, Shotput; Buddy Miller, Richard Nelson, Jim Wilson, and Johnny Robison, Relay men; Jim Mabry, Halfmile run, and Gary Crawford, 440-yard Dash.

Coach Griffin commented that the team has great promise for the next two years due to the large number of sophomores and juniors out for the track team this year. An example of this promise is sophomore pole vaulter Ricky Moon, whose dedication and abilities made him the boy to watch in '64.

WORKING OUT on the hurdles, Buddy Miller builds speed and endurance for the coming track meet.

With Accent on Endurance

Eighteen boys who made up the Enid High School swimming team went through rigorous training periods in order to condition themselves. Endurance had to be built up, for water is the most tiring means of propulsion, and speed was the object.

The boys entered twelve dual meets, winning third in Midstate. The Relay team composed of Paul Farrenbruch, Junior; Kenny Zaloudek, Senior; Steve Autry, Sophomore; Buddy Carroll, Junior; placed sixth in the state meet. Kenny Zaloudek placed in Midstate Individual 100-yard Breast Stroke, with Steve Autry qualifying in Individual Medley.

Tennis Strikes for Fame

Members of our tennis team worked hard all spring to condition themselves for matches and tournaments. Their coach, Tom Niles, imposed a vigorous program of training for them, including weightlifting, running, and, of course, playing tennis.

Due to lack of local practice space, the team was kept at a minimum with competition for top positions.

Those returning from last year's team were Rodney Turner, Dirk Willits, Rodney Schultz, Jim Shafter, and David Stoner.

FILLING THE COURT, Plainsmen racketers put forth long hours of dedicated practice.

Boys Try For Low Score

Irregular practice because of dependence on weather was an obstacle to golf. Complete practice of 18 holes was a time-consuming round. The better the boys played, the lower the par, and the shorter the game, but the trouble was in getting started.

A long winter, a period of rain could be a severe detriment since the goal was accuracy, not strength or endurance. Undaunted golfers practiced daily, some at Meadowlake, some at Oakwood Country Club.

The team, made up of 16 students, could use only eight in a match. Competition was keen. During a game, the top four would play an A team match, the next four, a B team. Highlight of the golfing season was the Mid-State tournament in Shawnee and the state tournament in Oklahoma City.

Exercises To Build Better Bodies

Physical Education was an important part of the modern program of general education at Enid High. This year an emphasis was placed on President Kennedy's Physical Fitness Program. The first six weeks were devoted to calisthenics and laps around the track. The five boys' P.E. classes were supervised by Dusty Eby, Rex Martin, and Frank Shive. Students were tested for improvement each semester. Two years of P.E. were required except for those in band or chorus, who took only one year. Games of football, basketball, softball, indoor soccer, and dodgeball were played. When playing football and basketball teams were formed in each class, and the winning team out of each class had a play-off. In swimming, a favorite of most students, various strokes were taught, and water polo was played. Training received in physical education was directly applied to the bettering of health habits in students' daily lives.

Letters, Symbols of Achievement

"With the blue, with the blue, with the blue, blue blue." This well-known cheer was heard coming from the Lettermen's Club section at all home games. On the court or in the stands, the lettermen could always be depended on for team spirit.

In order to join, the boy had to letter in one sport and go through a week's initiation. A committee planned that week of dress shirts, ties, and white E's. To earn money for their annual trip, the boys sold stickers and programs at football and basketball games. Those lettering in football and basketball earned a jacket and a "Big E." Boys lettering in other sports received a sweater and traditional letter. For additional years in Lettermen's Club, bars and medals were awarded. The club fought to bring success to E.H.S. This determination resulted in a worthwhile membership.

Scholarly are Honored By NHS

BUDDY ARNOLD relates how he injured his arm to Cynthia France, Larry Simpson and Connie Frantz.

With only two years at Enid High, the National Honor Society has emerged as a major part of the school. "Character, Service, Leadership, and Scholarship," symbolic ideals, were devotedly exemplified through club projects during the year. Paper-back classics were sold at reduced rate by members to induce character. New students appreciated the "Big Brother" service the group sponsored in showing them their way around. Although the organization accepted only juniors and seniors into membership, potential Honor Society sophomores were sent letters of recognition to encourage them to strive on in order that they might be selected as a member in their junior year. It was indeed an honor for an Enid High student to rate a National Honor Society seal on his diploma.

Students Help Run EHS Smoothly

"The backbone of Enid High School," the Student Council, has enjoyed another vigorous year. Key chains, a Christmas mailbox, and a student section at football games kept the Student Council members industriously active throughout the year.

Under the vigilant sponsorship of Mr. Stanley Jenkins and the student body officers the most important function, that of student governing, was carried out with superb smoothness.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" could not be applied to the Student Council. The party for new students, Christmas party, and the Student Council Convention provided the members with those extra social contacts.

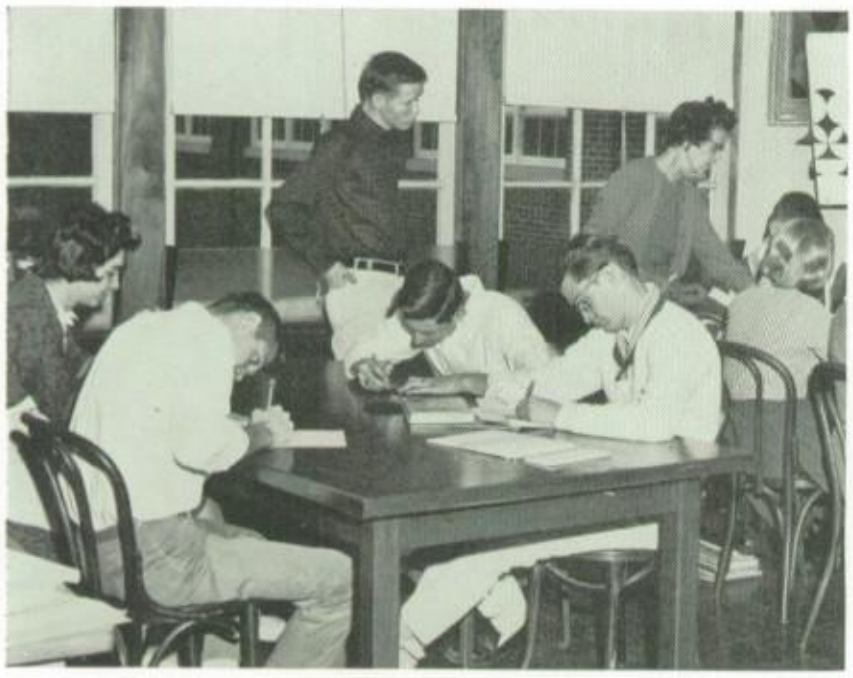
Palette Seeks Beauty in Art

ASPIRING PAINTERS, sculptors, and commercial artists strive to perfect their techniques on a multitude of projects.



To have a better appreciation of art was the goal of the Palette Club. Much emphasis was put on good artistic techniques of others' work. While sponsored by Miss Katherine Bales and Mr. Eldon Ames, the group took several field trips to sketch and journeyed to state art centers and museums. This year students took buses to Tulsa to visit Philbrook Art Center and Gilcrease Institute of American History. The occasion held not only opportunity to see some famous art but much fun for the students. Meeting monthly in the high school art room the enthusiasts gathered to listen to guest speakers and look at their exhibits. Other projects taken on by the Palette Club was the displaying of art work in the school library and making background and properties for assemblies. Combined creativeness and ideas produced worthwhile and enjoyable fun for each member.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' State representatives gather in school library to prepare their reports to sponsoring organizations.

Legislation Observed

Enid High School was capably represented by twelve boys and five girls at the annual Boys' State and Girls' State conventions. The boys, at Oklahoma University in Norman, and the girls in Chickasha, Oklahoma, each nominated whomever they thought to be the best qualified as a representative in the Oklahoma State Senate. From there outstanding members were sent to the National Senate.

Students desiring to attend Girls' State and Boys' State were first required to fill out application forms stating their own achievements in citizenship, scholarship, and leadership at school and in the community. Various civic organizations selected specific students to represent Enid at the respective Senates.

THE E.H.S. LIBRARY provides a spacious, quiet place for students to study, select a good book or just sit back and relax.

Library Benefits EHS

If you want to read about famous people, places, or just a plain old romance, try the Enid High library. The library is full of many different kinds of books including biographies, autobiographies, travel, adventure, and fiction. Miss Fleming, head librarian, keeps the library up to date with several orders of new books per year.

No matter what you need in the library, there's always a librarian to help you find it. Students may use the library during their study period or before and after school.

The world of mathematics is full of mysteries. Members of Delta Theta, guided by Miss Mary Evelyn Adams, discovered some of these mysteries through guest speakers and films. They learned about the opportunities awaiting them in the fields of science and mathematics, and of the scholarships available to them.

Meetings were held the second Wednesday of each month before school, with the fourth Wednesday of each month set aside for the club to meet after school.

To be eligible for membership the students were required to be Seniors, be enrolled in the courses of Trigonometry, Math Analysis, or Probability and Statistics.

The group found extra education available all around them and were willing to look for it.

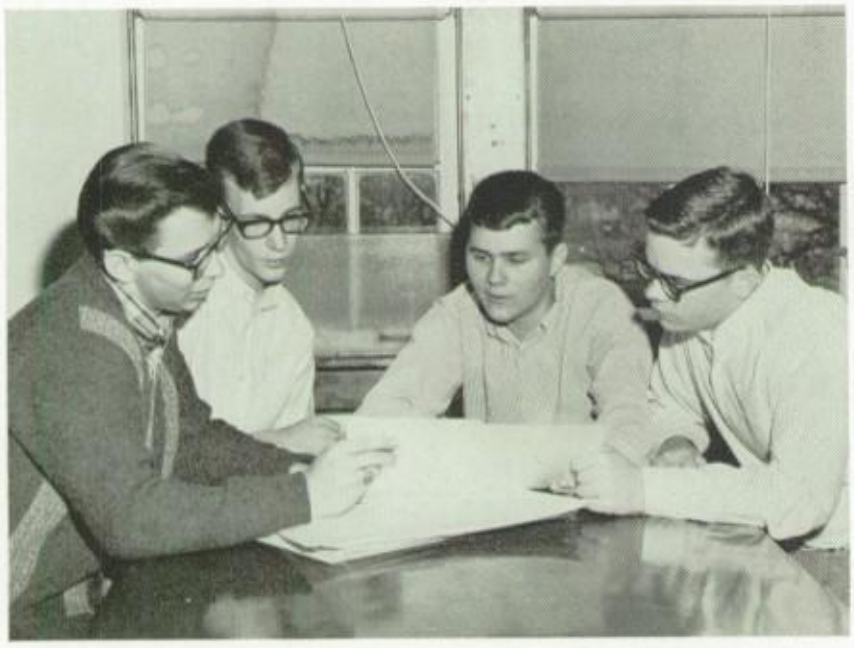
HI-Y MEMBERS Sonny Moore, John Harvey, Milton Combs and John Martin discuss coming journey to Stillwater for pre-legislative conference.



Hi-Y Has Active Year

Small but mighty, the Enid Hi-Y Royals debated and legislated their way into one of the top berths at state conventions. Each member wrote a bill which he debated through a Pre-legislature convention at Stillwater and later in the year, the legislature convention at the state capitol. One of the most active clubs in the state, the boys participated in every Hi-Y activity conducted this year. They also sold firewood and sponsored several dances at the new Y.M.C.A. to keep the club treasury in the black.

THE MAIN OFFICE is a busy place, and student assistants aid daily in the handling of a thousand details.

Assistants Always Busy

An active place in Enid High was the General Office where busy students aided hustling up and down the halls taking DCT's, STO's, DCA's, bulletins, and gathering attendance slips. Members of the office assistants' staff helped lubricate the machinery of the school. They gained knowledge assisting secretaries in carrying out the task of caring for the largest student body to be enrolled. The one hour spent daily in the office gave them an excellent opportunity to become better acquainted with school procedures, gain experience in running office equipment, mimeograph machines, and carry out work in a functioning business office.

The General Office served many purposes and was truly an indispensable place in Enid High this and every year.

Project Honors Retired

A student interested in becoming a teacher, social worker, or missionary is eligible for membership in Future Teachers of America. Varied guides gave members a clear picture of their chosen fields. Miss Evelyn Sanders and Mrs. Roberta Smith were club sponsors. Members served at all the Enid Education Association dinners, sent remembrances to retired teachers, sold concessions at one home football game, and gave a Christmas party for underprivileged children. In the spring the group attended the state convention at O.S.U. At the end of the year a scholarship was given to a deserving senior girl.

Members Assist in Hospital Work

In the past year the Medical Arts Club has tackled several interesting fields of study for the different courses in nursing, psychiatry, and pharmacology. The club spent most of the year doing volunteer work at the Enid State School, nursing homes, and St. Mary's Hospital. These students taught basketball to the boys and girls at the State School and gave their annual Christmas party. At the nursing homes the members helped by reading to the patients and running errands for them. Members did work in the chosen fields they wish to follow in the future in some hospital. They also planned trips to Tulsa, OU, and hospitals throughout the state. Among their guest speakers were Mrs. Anna Scruggs, Dean Shirley, Sister Miranda, and several doctors' wives, who made it a well-rounded year.

Ancient Language Culture Revived

Thrilling to the classical stories of Roman heroes, learning academic approach to the land of literature and mythology, Vergilians had the fun of being really cultured in their approach to education. Add to this the small, informal meetings held once a month, The Vergilian Variety newspaper taxing the imagination and the Latin of the group, and you have an interesting combination of the practical and the ethereal. The members were those students studying third and fourth-year Latin which are also known as Cicero and Vergil, Roman names.

A Vergilian banquet highlighted the year with Kent Burdett, president, and Kathleen Maddox, vice-president, assisted by Ann Rush, secretary, and Kathy Repp, treasurer, executing the program, decorations, and the responsibility for the evening's gaiety. Mrs. Autumn Stoner added her enthusiastic sponsorship insuring success of their projects. The club showed how the sober classical atmosphere wasn't always their style of living. Refinement and delightful fun were the results of their year.

EHS Students Keep Books

The crossroads of E.H.S. was the Activity Office. All organizational funds were accounted there, not to mention activity tickets and play tickets sold. As a convenience to the students, paper, pencils, and notebooks were sold, too. Much experience was received by second-year students who helped during study hall hours. The Activity Office was efficiently run by Mr. Charles Lynch and Mrs. Earlene Massie. It was just one of the many offices that kept E.H.S. moving.

Girls Display Sport Abilities

To promote physical fitness and friendship was the motto of the Girls' Recreation Association. The members have worked hard on skills in various sports. In the field of team sports, volleyball and basketball teams were formed and individual sports, badminton, table tennis, bowling, and other activities were popular among the G.R.A. members.

Special activities during the year included the annual Christmas party where the members had fun participating in some kind of physical activity. The members took pride in sponsoring the "Play Day." This was a basketball elimination consolation tournament held on February 8 with approximately six out of town schools participating. G.R.A.s also honored the visiting teams at a luncheon.

At the end of the year the G.R.A.s sponsored by Mrs. Phyllis Henrichs, presented an award to the outstanding G.R.A. member over a three-year period.

RONNIE HIGGINS, D.O. president, welcomes students, teachers, and employees to the organization's annual banquet.

D. O. Provides Theory, Work

Gaining practical experience through intense study and job experience, members of Diversified Occupations were able to graduate not only with knowledge of academics but also vocational training. Mr. Kennedy endeavored to refer all available information on careers to his students. Each year at the annual D.E.-D.O. banquet members honored their employers with a meal and entertainment. In March the officers and other qualified members attended the state-wide convention in Oklahoma City. Diversified Occupations provided a well-rounded curriculum for all who belonged.

GUEST SPEAKER at the D.E.-D.O. banquet, was Dr. Eugene Swearingen, Dean of the Oklahoma State University School of Business, who spoke on qualities making for success in business.

D. E. Has Effective Year

Conventions, honors, and jobs were all a part of the Distributive Education department. D.E. students received their education in the mornings and worked in the afternoons. A regular club was formed and officers elected. Queen Sherry Bland was crowned at the annual D.E. Breakfast. With the honors received at the Convention, their year closed well-rewarded. Jewel W. Ridge co-ordinated the program which enabled the year to run smoothly.

SLIGHTLY NERVOUS Aquaettes make last minute costume inventory before debut of Aquakazam.

Aquaettes Star in Aquakazam

Swimming to music was an all-year event for the members of the Aquaette Club. When tryouts were held, those who showed the most ability in synchronized swimming were then eligible for membership. Their first event was the show at Open House. Starting before Christmas vacation, the members chose "Aquakazam" as the theme for the Aquaette Show, March 11 and 12. Cara Sue Morton was crowned queen with attendants Diane DeFoe and Linda Hallam. With the leadership of Mrs. Judy Hickle, this underwater chorus line built a show that brought applause that could be heard from the bottom of the deep end.

Gym Managers Indispensable

There were approximately 600 girls enrolled in girls' physical education this past year. The responsibility of educating all these girls in the art of sportsmanship, sports abilities, and co-ordination did not rest solely on the shoulders of Mrs. Hickle and Mrs. Henrichs. They received much help from their gym managers. These girls, who were previously enrolled in a study hall, requested to be allowed to assist in the gym office. These girls took roll call, checked showers, and attended to any other odd jobs that turned up. Students appreciated their efforts as did instructors.

New Techniques Studied

Composed of all advanced and trade printing students, Printing Club gave its members an opportunity to study printing techniques used in the professional trade. Activities, in addition to reading and examining various types of materials, learning to use different kinds of presses and the linotype machine, included a field trip to Oklahoma State Technological Institute, Okmulgee, for the purpose of learning the latest approach to the subject of printing. Offset plants at Midwest City were also visited.

A picnic near the end of the year was hosted by the Printing Club for all printing students. Mr. Herbert A. Seem, instructor, sponsored the club.

Earning As One Learns

Earning, learning and developing a trade that will last a lifetime was the sole purpose of the machine shop. Trades course continued three years, three hours a day. When a certain level of success was attained, a boy could earn a meaningful pay check at city machine shops; on the job learning.

In the course, a pupil was trained to operate the milling machine, the turret lathe, the machine lathe and the radial drill press. He could choose his own projects to make. This could be making anything from a vise, to a lawn edger, to a bar-b-que grill for outdoor eating enjoyment in summer.

Each day students labored in the light of welding torches and the heat of powerful ovens to prepare for themselves a secure and interesting future.

Daily Problems of Life Studied

Discussions ranging from behavior on a date to the planning of a wedding were just some of the conversations held in the Homecraft classes under the leadership of Mrs. Donna Henneke and Mrs. Virginia Unruh. The classes also drew floor plans of their dream homes, going into details such as finishing, decor, and costs it all would involve.

Second semester found the girls in the midst of plans for a wedding. The cost of a reception and church rental were taken into consideration.

During the study of child care, girls made toys suitable for a child to use. These were made from inexpensive fragments of things found around the house.

Homecraft, in general, taught the student how to better understand herself, get along with other people, and how to cope with problems and crises that occurred during her daily life.

Sixth Hour Bible Club

If you were not sure what part of the Bible a verse was in, chances were a member of one of the four Bible clubs could help you. Under the leadership of Mr. Stanley Jenkins, each class elected separate officers to officiate and select programs for their meetings, held in the Bible Building.

Old Testament and New Testament were two subjects studied during the year, but a study of religious customs and different beliefs of foreign people proved interesting. Objective, interesting information one would benefit from the remainder of his life was stressed during both semesters.

My Father Gene McConkay in 1910 made the first pictures for the Quill Annual, through the years we have made three generations of graduates from Enid High School.

The name Photo By McConkay has stood out in the halls of Enid High through 46 years of fine Photography.

We endeavor to handle each customer as a separate and distinct "Study" not simply as a person who wants a picture, that's the reason why "McConkay pictures are Different".

I want to express my sincere Thanks to Mr. Autry and his office staff, Ruth Scott, Faculty and members of school body, for time and patience putting up with me.
